

Energy Engineering and Environmental issues: a global, resource-based approach

Enrico Sciubba
Department of Mechanical & Aerospace Engineering
University of Roma I “La Sapienza” enrico.sciubba@uniroma1.it

Abstract

The lecture begins with a brief recapitulation of the desirable properties of an Environmental Indicator, and then develops a fundamental thermodynamic analysis of the concept. After a brief thermodynamic analysis of some of the most common EIs in use today, it describes Extended Exergy, a novel indicator based on a rigorous and resource-based exergy concept.